

Evaluation Process

PROCESS OVERVIEW

1

Scheduling Department

Receives the referral from the employer and contacts the employee/applicant and provider/clinic to obtain availability and schedule the appointment. If the scheduled appointment is missed, a scheduling analyst will reach out to reschedule.

2

Provider Relations Department

Contacts the clinic to confirm the examinee's attendance and follows up regularly until all examination components and results have been received. If any documentation is incomplete or missing, a provider relations analyst will reach out to obtain the amended or outstanding results.

3

Exam Quality Assurance Department

Assesses all received records to confirm that all exam components are present and that the documentation is complete and accurate.

4

Exam Review Department

Comprised of experienced subject matter experts and medical providers who examine all results, evaluate them against applicable DoD/DoS guidelines and employer requirements to determine fitness, and then issue a final recommendation to the employer.

5

Possible Post-Exam Follow-Up

If abnormalities are identified that require clarification under applicable DoD/DoS guidelines, post-exam follow-up may be needed. Occu-Med will notify the employee/applicant of the follow-up needed. Follow-up is the responsibility of the employee/applicant. Any additional documentation should be given directly to the individual rather than sent to Occu-Med.

6

Final Recommendation

Occu-Med receives follow-up information directly from the employee/applicant. The Exam Review Department evaluates this information to determine whether the individual can safely deploy or perform essential job functions and issues a final recommendation to the employer. Occu-Med does not share any medical information with the employer — only the outcome of the evaluation.

Authorization Forms & Privacy Practices

Occu-Med determines the required medical testing for each individual based on the applicable federal and state occupational health regulations, EEOC guidelines, ADA standards, and the specific contractual requirements of the employer.

For individuals entering the public or private sector workforce — including those pursuing civilian employment, government positions, or contractor roles — the governing medical criteria establish the screening components, fitness standards, and any follow-up requirements that apply to each position type and job classification.

These standards are applied by Occu-Med's medical review team to determine which components are required for each examinee based on their job duties, work environment, and the employer's occupational health requirements. The itemized list is provided to your clinic through the Authorization for Examination, which serves as the definitive source for all testing that must be completed. You are not expected to determine what components are clinically or administratively required.

Required Clinic Actions

- Ensure all listed components on the Authorization for Examination are completed.
- Notify Occu-Med immediately if any component cannot be performed.
- Perform only the listed components and document findings clearly.

On the date of the visit, we kindly request that the examinee sign both the Authorization for Examination and the Authorization for Release of Information from Medical Records, which are included in Occu-Med's exam packet. These documents authorize your clinic to perform the examination and release all medical documentation directly to Occu-Med in full compliance with U.S. HIPAA regulations and applicable state privacy laws.

KEY INFORMATION & GUIDANCE

Occu-Med's employer clients cover the cost of all authorized medical and occupational health screening services through Occu-Med — examinees should not be billed directly. Services are billed on a line-item basis using the approved rates in the Provider Service Agreement. Fee updates may be submitted to Occu-Med for review and written approval, applying to future appointments once approved.

Before an exam is conducted, Occu-Med issues an Authorization for Examination outlining the examinee, approved services, required forms, and clinic location. Occu-Med's financial responsibility applies to the services listed on the authorization and approved pricing. Billing and reimbursement are managed directly by Occu-Med and are not outsourced.

BILLING & PAYMENT PROCESS

After services are completed, invoices should include the examinee's name, date of birth, date of service, itemized services performed, approved fees, and billing currency. Invoices may be submitted to Finance@occu-med.com.

Once all authorized results have been received, Occu-Med's Finance Team reviews the invoice to confirm services and pricing. Undisputed invoices are paid within NET 30. The NET 30 period begins after all authorized results and a complete, itemized invoice have been received. Payments are issued by bank transfer or check in U.S. dollars.
